Taking Action: The Cradle-to-Career Data System

- In 2019, California enacted the Cradle-to-Career Data System Act, which called for the establishment of a state longitudinal data system to link existing education, social services, and workforce information. Note: no new data reporting required
- The Act articulated the scope of an 18-month planning process to be shaped by a workgroup that consists of the partner entities named in the Act. The planning process, was overseen by the Governor's Office and managed by WestEd, ran from January 2020-June 2021.

A collaborative approach to designing a solution

Partner entities include:

- Early Learning and K-12: California Department of Education
- Postsecondary: the Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities, Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education, California Community Colleges, California State University, University of California
- Education-Related Entities: California Student Aid Commission, Commission on Teacher Credentialing
- Employment and Workforce Training: Employment Development Department, Labor and Workforce Development Agency
- Social Services and Health: California Department of Social Services, California Health and Human Services Agency
- Data Experts: California Department of Technology, California School Information Services

Members of the public also helped to develop proposals and reviewed recommendations through two advisory groups (Policy & Analytics Advisory Group and Practice & Operations Advisory Group) and five subcommittees (Definitions, Technology & Security, Common Identifier, Research Agenda, and Community Engagement Subcommittees).

There are more than 200 people who were involved in the planning process.

Planning Timeline

Cradle-to-Career Data System Purpose

Vision

The Cradle-to-Career Data System connects individuals and organizations with trusted information and resources. It provides insights into critical milestones in the pipeline from early care to K–12 to higher education, skills training, and employment. It empowers individuals to reach their full potential and fosters evidence-based decision-making to help California build a more equitable future.

Mission

To be California's source of actionable data and research on education, economic, and health outcomes for individuals, families, and communities; to expand access to tools and services to navigate the education to employment pipeline.

200 data points: Three ways to access

- Dashboards
- Query builder
- Research request process

Timeline for Implementation

Cradle-to-Career Data System was codified through the Trailer Bill, which includes $15 million in funding for 2021-22 (plus additional line items for scaling student-facing tools)

Examples of Tools for Students

- Foster Youth: Students can authorize the Department of Social Services to alert the colleges they apply to about their status as foster youth, so the college can work with them from day one about financial aid and other supports that are available to them.
- College Students: Students send an electronic transcript when they apply to college and include examples of badges or competency-based certifications.

Examples of Tools for Families and Educators

- College and career planning: Families will be able to access to information about education and career options. Parents can see whether their children are on track to meet a-g requirements and work with their schools to make course corrections.
  - Financial aid: High school counselors can view whether students are completing their financial aid applications and provide more support to ensure that students can afford higher education.
  - Better data: High schools can get help to ensure their courses are correctly flagged for a-g status, so there aren't problems with students' college applications.

Examples of Dashboard Content

All of these topics will be displayed as infographics that allow users to see trends over time and the outcomes for different groups of students, such as by race, gender, socioeconomic status, and many characteristics from disability to veteran status.

Results can be viewed at the local institution, regional, and statewide levels.

- Are teachers being retained, and how does this relate to their college programs and certification?
- What are the long-term impacts of chronic absenteeism in K-12?
- Which colleges do K-12 students apply to, get accepted to, enroll, and persist in?
- How many students are eligible for financial aid but do not apply? How many students apply for financial aid but do not receive it?
- Which students are most likely to earn a living wage, and how does that relate to their education pathway?

Examples of Query Builder Content

Users can select variables of their choice to generate tables and charts on student outcomes, with the ability to get more specific information, such as:

How do college outcomes vary for students based on:

- The institutional context (suspension rates, proportion of students completing a-g requirements)
- Their family context (whether their parents had gone to college or earned a bachelor's degree)
- Their learning context (when they became proficient in English)

Focused on privacy and neutrality

- Data will be hosted by an independent third party—the C2C Office, within the Government Operations Agency—with oversight from a governing board that is accountable to taxpayers. It will not conduct its own research or issue policy statements.
- When looking at education and career outcomes, the public will only see trends and summaries for anonymized groups of students, with individual information kept private.
- For research projects, individual identities will be hidden, and studies must be approved through a data request process.
- For college eligibility, transcript, and social service history data, individuals and their families, or authorized school personnel, will access tools through a password-protected interface.

Timeline

- We updated the timeline developed during the planning process

California Cradle-to-Career Data System

In 2019, the California State Legislature passed the California Cradle-to-Career Data System Act, which sets out requirements for the development of a statewide data infrastructure. This data system will ensure that educational, workforce, financial aid, and social service information is fully leveraged to address disparities in opportunities and improve outcomes for all students from cradle to career.

Over the course of 2020, the California Governor's Office, with support from WestEd, will lead a process to design the first phase of the California Cradle-to-Career Data System. The recommended process will be documented in a report to the Department of Finance and the Legislature in December 2020. In July 2021, a second report will provide additional implementation specifications. Download an overview of the project, read a General FAQ, or a Technical FAQ.

WHAT TYPES OF INFORMATION WILL THE DATA SYSTEM PROVIDE?

The data system will provide information that helps more students attain their educational, career, and life goals. The system will be designed with privacy and security of state data as the top priority. By securely connecting data that schools, colleges, social service agencies, financial aid providers, and employers already collect, it will be easier to:

- Identify the types of supports that help more students learn, stay in school, prepare for college, graduate, and secure a job
- Provide information that teachers, advisors, parents, and students can use to identify opportunities and make decisions
- Help agencies plan for and improve educational, workforce, and health and human services programs
- Support research on improving policies from birth through career
